The fiscal court failed to publish the order calling for an election on the question of issuing bonds to purchase the turnpikes within the time prescribed by law. The law requires the publication for 30 days, next preceding the election, and the Central Record first published it on October 8. I also understand that the notices were not posted in time, by several days. The bonds will certainly carry, but it is claimed that this failure to comply with the law will render them void, or, at least, not salable. This is to be regretted, as it will cause the turnpike disturbance to be renewed until November, 1898. J. W. Daugherty, colored, of Nicholasville, made a rallying speech city, on last Wednesday night, in behalf of the "Independent Republican Club." He was frequently applauded and his speech made a good impression. He urged the colored voters to declare themselves free from the lash of the republican office seeker and to vote for their own interests. He said that they were entitled to a division of offices, as they number as many as the white republicans; that they had promised to recognize them and when the time came they were told to wait awhile and it would continue so until Gabriel blows his trumpet, and even then some white republicans will tell him that his time has not yet come. election will be an uninteresting one. Mrs. J. H. Albright returned to Brodhead Saturday, after a pleasant visit to her father, J. S. Coulter, and other relatives. V. R. Coleman, of the Reporter office, Somerset, returned Monday to his post of duty, after a week's stay with his parents here. Democratic associations at Pulaski's capital seem to have had a favorable effect on "Virge," as he made the writer to his race in Central Park, this a solemn promise to return here on election day and vote at least part of the democratic ticket.
